

Freedom's Journey

The Art of Organizing for Democratic Change and the Mission of Liberation

JUNE 18-22, 2018 | CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

40 HOURS OF TRAINING AND MATERIALS INCLUDED

This five-day workshop will provide power-based, effective, and relational community organizing training grounded in helping you learn mission-based organizing and leadership skills. It will include lectures, role plays, reading and discussion, case-studies, hands-on practice, and individual reflection. This workshop is ecumenical and interfaith, and open to both clergy and laity.

The Freedom's Journey workshop leader, Gerald Taylor, has over 50 years of experience in community organizing and will offer both creative and strategic solutions that can be implemented immediately in your community.

This workshop will be held at St. James Commons, located one block west of the Magnificent Mile, at 65 East Huron Street in Chicago, Illinois.

To see learn more about the instructor, see the course objectives, and to register, visit the Freedom's Journey webpage.
